Decoration Day.

Like that of 1839, Decoration Day this year is interesting because of the happy incident that it sees veterans of the Fedral and Confederate Armies of a generation ago, in all the national cemeteries, will be art. It is not even to be compared by what anakes American furniture—the factory-made are sage kind—the ug-like in the known vorid. Our stovy-man-ufacturers try to decorate their ware with lonic columns and Greek arabesques, and our architects seem to have an idea that it was upon the urgent insistence of Representative Cromer that Neely was appointed to the Cuban postal service. It may be that the record shows his appointment was recommended by Heath, but this can be very easily accounted for on the well-established principle of political reciprocity which dictates in the interests of party harmony the placating of factional enemies. It is contended that but for Mr. Cromer's strong demands Neely was appointed to the Cuban postal service.
